

Dennie-Morgan line

Dennie-Morgan line (also Dennie-Morgan infraorbital fold) is a feature on the lower eyelid occurring in atopy. It is a fold formed by swelling of the eyelid, usually present bilaterally. It cannot be used as a stand-alone diagnostic criteria, but may help in making the diagnosis in association with other symptoms.^[1]

Links

Related articles

- Allergy

References

1. KOŠŤÁLOVÁ, Dagmar. Dermatitis atopica [online]. Česká dermatovenerologická společnost, [cit. 2020-02-10]. <<https://www.derm.cz/napln/historicke-standardy-cds/dermatitis-atopica/>>.

Double fold of the lower eyelid due to atopy