

Descriptive characteristics

Descriptive characteristics are the signs characterizing:

person (age, sex),

place (geographic location) and

time (time determination of exposure or onset of disease) in connection with the risk and occurrence of the disease.

 For more information see Descriptive Studies.

Links

Sources

- BENCKO, Vladimír, et al. Epidemiologie, výukové texty pro studenty 1. LFUK, Praha. 2. edition. Praha : Univerzita Karlova v Praze – Nakladatelství Karolinum, 2002. ISBN 80-246-0383-7.