

Help:Headings

If you want to check and sign the parameter headings in editorial process template, you have to look at the article and assess:

The headings should be created as is written in Help:Editing. Foremost the level of the headings should be checked. There is only one exception – inserted articles. The articles which are inserted into another articles have changed the level of headings by a one lower.

If you have checked all these things, you can sign the parameter headings in editorial process template by your editorial signature :

```
{{Editorial process
|headings = Wikiholic, 7. 7. 2011
}}
```

If the article is a {{Dictionary}} and does not contain any heading, you can sign the parameter headings in editorial process template too:

```
{{Editorial process
|headings = not necessary, Wikiholic, 7. 7. 2011
}}
```

If you checked the parameter headings, you should check the parameter breakdown too!