

Primary aggregation

English: Primary aggregation is a process influenced by the platelet activator - thrombin .

Because of it and other stimulating substances, platelets can aggregate (cluster).

The mediator of this reversible aggregation is fibrinogen . Platelets have receptors for fibrinogen on their surface.

Links

Related articles

- Secondary aggregation
- Hemostasis

Sources

- TROJAN, Stanislav, et al. Lékařská fyziologie. 4., přeprac. a uprav edition. Praha : Grada Publishing, a.s, 2003. 772 pp. ISBN 80-247-0512-5.