Create Article

Hello Britom,

Thank you for your joining us in WikiLectures. I saw that you have been working on your article about Alzheimer which is really great! Please do not be afraid to create the article by clicking on the Create article in the menu, this way everyone can enjoy the article.

I would also like to point out the copyright law. Which says that it is not allowed to copy texts from works that are copyright protected. This would include almost every source of information you can find: textbooks, magazines, internet etc. Thus basically in order to put here in WikiLectures, it needs to be your own original text.

Once again thank you and I hope you will continue writing articles and help to create a great source of medical information. --
