User page

Hello Garasone,

Thank you for your additions to WikiLectures. I saw you found your user page where you add things about yourself and upload a picture of yourself etc. More information about how to do these things you can find under Help:Contents. I would also appreciate if you could stick to English in everything concerning WikiLectures, so that both English and Czech students etc can help and understand what is going on.

Once again welcome and enjoy. --Handeka 19:11, 26 July 2011 (CEST)

I just tried to insert my photo to my user page. But I can't find myself in the list of users. How it is possible? Can somebody advice me, please? --Garasone Hello Garasone, uploading files is really simple! I know you hate reading manuals and help articles, but try to read help to images :-). Just click to the left menu "Toolbox", choose link "Upload file" and go on. Inserting the image to your user page is described in the help...

I have another advice for you: when writing to the discussion page, you can insert a signature after your comment by clicking the button above the edit field (Your signature with timestamp).

And thanks for your new articles, they are pretty good! Please, stay with us and continue :-) -- Slepí (Editorial Board of WikiLectures) 23:49, 26 July 2011 (CEST)

Hi, Slepí,

Thank you :) You know me very well - I hate reading manuals - I think that things should flow naturally :) I have already inserted my photo but I am not able to put it into my user page. Doesn't matter. Maybe next time. You are welcome. I am here just for Biology and Genetics :) --Garasone 15:54, 27 July 2011 (CEST)

Hi Garasone,

just edit your user page and insert code [[File:Garasone.JPG|100 px|left]]. You can insert any image in the article this way. You can use also the button  in your edit window. --  Michaela Romerova -- Editorial Board of WikiLectures 16:22, 27 July 2011 (CEST)

Hey! Thank you, guys. I have done it. And what more...I just learned how to insert pictures into my articles. I am going to use it well. Nice to co-operate with you. --Garasone 17:44, 27 July 2011 (CEST)

Article titles

Dear Garasone,

Thank you for your many genetics articles. I see that you pick your topics of the Exam topics list from the first faculty. Some of us are not from the First Faculty and we do not have lists of exam topics. Thus when we study for these exams we will just use the search function. Therefore these topics are not appropriate title names for articles and thus it is better to create conciser named articles. E.g. "Meiosis and its disturbances" should be named only "Meiosis".

On the topic list you can then use [[Meiosis|Meiosis and its disturbances]] to properly link the shorter named article. Thank you, --  Hanneke de Boer -- Editorial Board of WikiLectures 16:40, 23 August 2011 (CEST)

Hi, Handeka. I am sorry, it is my fault. I thought that these pages are used just by our faculty. So I follow just our exam topics. But now I understand so I am going to do it in your way. If I will be technically able to do that. --Garasone 17:19, 23 August 2011 (CEST)

Lucky cloverleaf

Dear Jana,

thank you for your continuous effort in WikiLectures. Your articles in Genetics are remarkable. I was also taken aback that you even draw your own pictures. You deserve our gratitude for this great work. It is our custom to present committed users like you with an award and I'm very honored to present you with WikiCleaveleaf. Thank you and keep up with the good work. --  Honza Mudruška -- Editorial Board of WikiLectures 10:24, 23 October 2011 (CEST)

Featured Article

Hello Garasone,

First of all congratulations with your first article to be shown as Featured Article. It was very well written with relevant and interesting information. I would also like to commend you on your last articles (since WikiWeekend) I am so glad you took my advice as your articles have improved 10 fold, both the understandability and the English are great! Well done and I really look forward to your future articles! ;) --  Hanneke de Boer -- Editorial Board of WikiLectures 20:18, 31 October 2011 (CET)

Hello, Hanneke,

Thank you very much. I've just discovered it and I am really very happy. Thank you for your advice about these "sauce like things". I would like to write good articles, so I am grateful for any advice on how to improve them ;) -- Garasone 21:34, 31 October 2011 (CET)

VP Shunt

The pictures of both VP and VA shunts are in progress (I'll upload them on sunday). I wasn't able to find your e-mail adress, so I'm letting you know this way. Have a nice weekend!
