

WikiLectures:Category portal

There are three possibilities how to find an article in WikiLectures:

1. Using full text searching
2. Using portals. Portals are intended especially for students. Their structure corresponds with the study plan and study subjects taught at First Medical Faculty.
3. Using category tree. You can reach WikiLectures category tree from this page or from main category page (Category:Categories). Categorisation helps authors to find existing articles on particular topics.

Branches

This category tree represents various medical branches. The names of subjects on medical schools differ throughout the world, but the names of medical branches remain the same. That is the reason for putting the article into suitable categories in branches category tree. Don't forget there are no limits for number of categories into which can be article inserted.

Dictionary

Definitions and short articles which give you information about a particular subject is sorted category Dictionary.
