

Forum:Eligible Subject

Eligible subject WikiLectures (B81969)

It is quite new eligible subject at Charles University in Prague, Czech Republic. It began in academic year 2011/2012.

In this course, students participate in editorial processing of medical educational materials on the website <http://www.wikilectures.eu>. They work independently, are encouraged to work through individual consultations and seminars for a small number of participants. Gradually, they are trained and then learn practical principles of professional biomedical text processing, working with bibliographic citations and scientific illustrations. There is no required previous knowledge of the environment of WikiLectures or technical skills.

Every student will get some WikiGuide – more advanced user, who can teach you all about WikiLectures.

You will get 3 credits and the extent of work must be at least 30 hours for the whole school year.