

Pelger-Huët anomaly

The Pelger-Huët anomaly is the inability of neutrophile granulocytes to mature from rods into segmented forms, which, however, does not affect the function, only the results of blood tests.