

Streptococcus bovis

Streptococcus bovis is the most important representative of gamma-hemolytic streptococci, i.e. bacteria that do not cause hemolysis on blood agar. In older literature, it is classified as viridans streptococci, and even today it is often associated with them.

Sources

- HURYCH, Jakub – ŠTÍCHA, Roman. Medical microbiology. 1. edition. Triton, 2020. ISBN 978-80-7553-844-4.
- BEDNÁŘ, Marek – SOUČEK, Andrej – FRAŇKOVÁ, Věra. Medical microbiology: Bacteriology, virology, parasitology. 1. edition. Marvil, 1996. ISBN 8023802976.